

RICS Presents

Sponsorship Packages

RICS Training is at the forefront of innovation in the built environment and brings together some of the greatest players and most inspirational experts in the industry. By sponsoring a RICS Presents event, you will have access to local, national and global audiences in the construction, property and land sectors.

RICS Presents includes the upcoming live event and a suite of online courses created from event footage and hosted on the RICS Online Academy, which means that you will continue to be affiliated with RICS for a 6 month period via our online global training platform.

We have a selection of sponsorship packages available giving you access to professionals across the built environment.
